TERRAPINS

2000 Men's Season Preview

Terps aim for return to second straight NCAA Tournament

The roster is new, but the expectations are the same for the 2000 Maryland men's golf team.

Head coach Tom Hanna returns to guide the Terrapin golfers, directing his club for the ninth season and hoping for his third trip to the NCAA golf championships. With Hanna are a pair of seasoned and outstanding seniors in Gary Mankulish (Laurel, Md.) and Keith Unikel (Potomac, Md.), but surrounding the national caliber duo are a half-dozen newcomers who Hanna hopes will help match the performance of last year's NCAA-qualifying team.

First, a look at the seniors. Mankulish and Unikel both have proven successful on the regional and national level, and might be the best senior duo in Terrapin history. Both are former local stars as juniors, and the past two summers have resulted in hefty accolades for both. Unikel was the Maryland State Open champion in the summer of 1998 and has been involved in playoffs in U.S. Amateur qualification twice. Mankulish, meanwhile, was one to top his teammate in a one-hole playoff in U.S. Amateur qualification in summer 1999. At the U.S. Amateur played at Pebble Beach, Mankulish advanced three rounds before falling in three playoff holes to tournament favorite and ACC rival Bryce Molder.

Last spring, Unikel was named All-ACC while ranking among the nation's top golfers with a 72.33 stroke average. Mankulish, a noted long-ball hitter, trailed Unikel with a 73.83 average. Last fall, the duo finished just one stroke apart after five tournaments with Mankulish edging his partner, 73.00 to 73.07. One of the two golfers led Maryland in four of the five tournaments they played during the fall.

"Both of those guys are bonafide All-ACC," remarked Hanna. "They both can play with anyone in the country and they've already proven it. Plus, they both want to win. Golf can be a bit of an individual sport, but both these guys are team leaders and they want us to win as a team."

Hanna added, "Keith is as complete an all-around player as you will find on the college level. He'll be in every tournament. Gary has really stepped up his game and found that he can play the game at the highest level. Gary was our long-ball hitter last year and as he's raised the rest of his game, he's become just as complete as anybody."

Mankulish and Unikel hope to guide Hanna's team of youngsters into the 2000 spring season, but though young, Hanna expects his crew to battle for NCAA contention the same as in 1999.

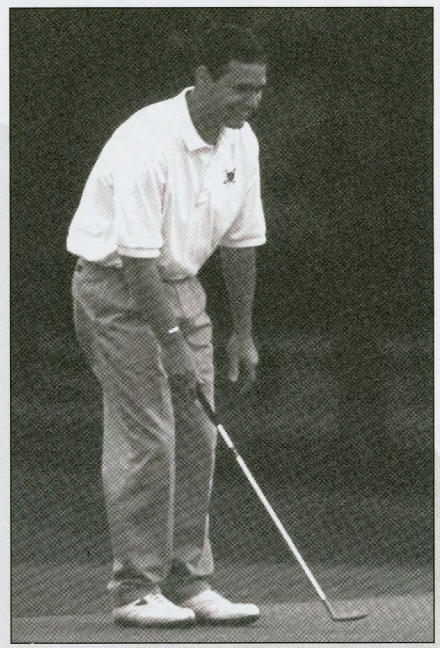
"We're going to be pretty good," said Hanna. "We're just a little young and we took our lumps during the fall. Keith and Gary played just as I'd expect them to, and our young guys found out what it's like to play at this level. We got some really strong performances from some of the youngsters, now we just have to level them out and make those performances more consistent."

The Terps are young but not quite inexperienced with sophomore transfers Corey Brigham (Rumson, N.J.), Scott Ehrlich (Blue Bell, Pa.) and Phillip Fenstermaker (Rockville, Md.), and hotshot freshmen Dan MacDonald (Plandome, N.Y.) and John Moheyer (Lima, Ohio).

Brigham, a transfer from Baylor, followed the two seniors last fall, posting a 74.42 stroke average and leading Maryland with a ninth-place finish at Tampa's Old Memorial Golf Course. Brigham blitzed the course with a tournament-low round of 68 while finishing three-over par for the tournament.

"Corey just tore apart that course at Old Memorial. Not many guys do that. He was consistent all season during the fall and he makes a nice addition to our lineup," added Hanna.

Ehrlich and Fenstermaker should compete with MacDonald and Moheyer for time in the Terp lineup. MacDonald was steady in his first college semester of play, sporting a 76.00 average behind Brigham, shooting all eight rounds between 75 and 78. Moheyer, meanwhile, was defined by inconsistency in his first fall but showed the promise expected from him as an outstanding junior from Ohio. Moheyer captured medalist honors at the Chattanooga Intercollegiate, firing a 70-69-69—208 for five-under par and Maryland's only individual champion of the fall. Twice, though, he shot rounds of 86 and averaged 77.36 for the season.



Keith Unikel

Other challengers for playing time are a pair of local freshmen anticipating their first college tournament play — redshirt freshman Brit Musser (North Potomac, Md.) and freshman Vertti Iso-Ahola (Upper Marlboro, Md.).

The Terps will again be a strong candidate for postseason competition, but success will hinge on the consistency of seven newcomers among a nine-man roster.

The 2000 Men's Team

Men's Head Coach Tom Hanna

Ninth season at Maryland • Maryland '71

Maryland men's head golf coach Tom Hanna has more than 25 years of experience in the golf business, both as a coach and as a competitor. Over the past nine years, Hanna has taken a little known, underfunded program and transformed it into a highly recognized contender which has some of the best up-and-coming talent in the ACC. This, along with the expertise that he brings to the program, will be the spark that get the Terps back along the path that will lead to success in both the ACC and nationally.

Originally from Lock Haven, Pa., Hanna is no stranger to success when it comes to golf. In his collegiate days with the Terps, Hanna competed in three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. Following his collegiate playing days, he then moved on to compete on the Professional Golf Association (PGA) Tour. After a brief stint in the PGA, Hanna continued to rack up state and local titles in the Philadelphia section of the PGA. After his time competing there, Hanna remained on the East Coast, gaining extensive experience as a head professional at several prestigious country clubs. He spent three years at Lock Haven Country Club in Lock Haven, Pa., before taking the head professional job at Centre Hills Country Club in State College, Pa., from 1977-84. From 1985-90, Hanna was the director of golf at the Harbour Towne Golf Course in St. Michaels, Md. In 1991, he returned to his alma mater to take over the reins of the Maryland men's golf program.

Since then, Hanna has steadily improved the golf program. In 1994, the Terps finished fifth at the ACC Championships, their highest finish since 1978. This resulted in Hanna earning ACC Coach of the Year honors.

Last year, he guided the Terps to a second trip to the NCAA East Regional and consistent top 30 national rankings.

Also, in 1991 Hanna was named the director of the Maryland golf course, a job in which he exerted just as much energy as with the golf team. Hanna helped transform the Maryland golf course into one of the nicest, cleanest, and most popular courses in the area that is used on an annual basis to host numerous local high school golf championships. He recently relinquished his course director duties, but remains heavily involved in ensuring that it remains one of the top courses in the area. Hanna also directs several summer golf camps at the University of Maryland.

Hanna graduated from the University of Maryland in 1971 and received his B.S. in physical education. Hanna and his wife, Kathy, have three children: Betsi, Thomas III, and Jessica.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND GOLF COURSE

An 18-hole semi-private championship golf course located on the north perimeter of the University of Maryland's flagship campus in College Park, the University of Maryland Golf Course is the home of the Terrapins' men's and women's golf teams.

Open year-round, the 6,700-yard championship course features a newly constructed clubhouse which was completed in April 1999. The course has long been the site of numerous state and regional tournaments, and the 35,000-sq. ft., plantation-style clubhouse has become a gathering point for campus and surrounding communities.

The clubhouse upper level features a full-service bar, grill and banquet facility that seats 75 for lunch and tournament events, and can handle groups from eight to 200 including a banquet facility whose outdoor patio overlooks the course. Its main level features management offices, a fully-equipped pro shop with the latest styles of Terrapin golf attire, men's and women's locker facilities, and a Terrapin golf suite with offices, separate locker rooms and a lounge for the Terps' men's and women's teams.

Designed by George Cobb and built in 1955, the course plays 50,000 rounds per year with preference given to students, faculty, staff and alumni. Its semi-private facilities include a 5,000-sq. ft. putting green and a 45-station driving range.

TERRAPINS

2000 Women's Season Preview

Inaugural Terps look to build on first Fall campaign

"I am very excited to begin our first spring season," said head coach Jason Rodenhaver. "We hope to build a solid foundation and are very fortunate to have a talented group of golfers on our first roster. Though the majority of our players are freshmen, I feel that the experience and playing time that they will earn this season will be extremely beneficial to our maturation process."

Maryland's first women's golf team will be young in terms of collegiate experience but has a great deal of playing experience. The team will be comprised of two juniors, a sophomore and five freshmen.

Based on the results from the Terps' inaugural fall season, Jen Gibson and Erin Clasper are the team's top golfers. Both freshmen, Gibson and Clasper participated in all four of Maryland's fall tournaments and finished with the lowest average scores for the season. Another pair of freshmen, Brooke Bendler and Carter Crowther, displayed the abilities to compete for spots in the starting lineup during the upcoming season.

Gibson participated in all four fall tournaments and was the Terps' top golfer with an 80.60 stroke average. She was the most consistent player for the Terps during the fall season as all of her scores were between 77 and 84. She carded three scores in the 70s, which tied for the team lead.

Clasper was one of two Terps to card a top-10 individual finish during the fall. She finished in a tie for 10th place at the Great Smokies Invitational. In addition, she shot the best individual round among all team members with a one over-par 71 in the first round of the Nittany Lion Invitational on Oct. 1. Her gross score and her score vs. par were the top individual scores in the fall season.

Bendler and Crowther, two of the most improved players during the fall season, performed well above Rodenhaver's expectations and will be among the Terps' top golfers during the spring. Bendler joined the Terps after transferring from the University of Mississippi and Crowther was the top high school golfer in the state of Virginia.

Jennifer Gibson

Erin Clasper

During the fall, Bendler shot her top single-round score of 75 during the third round of the Penn State Nittany Lion Invitational. Her score was tied for the second best individual gross score and tied for fourth best score vs. par during the fall season among all the Terp players. In addition, she carded a 77 in the second round of the Unlimited Potential/ Baytree Classic.

Crowther finished fourth on the team with a strong 83.50 stroke average during the fall. She finished tied for seventh in leading the Terps to a fourth-place finish at the Great Smokies Championship as she was one of two players to finish among the individual top 10 in a fall tournament. Her first-round score of 76 (+4) at the Great Smokies Championship was the fourth-best single-round gross score of the fall for the Terps.

Rodenhaver will also count on junior Sarah Bedford and freshmen Lori Koch and Holly Thornton to help the Terps this season. Jessica Burrows, a walk-on, will add depth to the roster.

Bedford, who will serve as the team captain, shot four of her five fall rounds in the 80s. As the Terps' elder stateswoman, she will add much needed leadership to the relatively young team. Koch was a member of Maryland's rotation at the Nittany Lion Invitational and helped the Terps to an eighth-place team finish while Thornton's best score of 78 came in round three of the Nittany Lion Invitational.

"We definitely have our work cut out for us," says Rodenhaver. "The ACC is loaded with superpowers including Duke, which is the defending national champion. Our schedule is very competitive and will allow us to be successful if we play well. In scheduling for our first season, I wanted to put our players in position where they could be successful. If we are able to put ourselves in position to be successful, we will be able to call our first season a successful one."

Women's Head Coach Jason Rodenhaver

First season at Maryland • Maryland '94

Jason Rodenhaver was named the first coach of the Maryland women's golf program on Nov. 19, 1998. It was then that he began the enviable task of building a brand new program that launched during the fall of 1999. A professional golfer, Rodenhaver enthusiastically made the move to the coaching ranks and is creating a new era for women's sports at the University of Maryland.

With his sights set firmly on developing a solid foundation for the program, Rodenhaver has been given the resources necessary to compete at the national level. His playing and coaching experiences coupled with his competitive spirit and drive to be successful can mean only one thing for the women's golf program at Maryland: eventual long-term success.

Rodenhaver was the assistant men's golf coach at Maryland and an assistant golf professional at the University of Maryland Golf Course when he was named to lead the newly created women's program. He assumed full-time responsibility for the women's team on Dec. 7, 1998.

"Clearly, Jason was the most qualified and the best fit for his role of our new head coach," said Director of Athletics Deborah A. Yow upon Rodenhaver's appointment. "Given his level of familiarity with the university and the local golf community, he will jump-start our women's golf program, with the long range goal of becoming a top 20 team. Women's golf is our 13th sport for female student-athletes. Its addition is the capstone to our six-year gender equity plan."

On the course, he co-directed Maryland's summer camp for junior golfers the last three years, and was tournament director of the State Farm Collegiate Players Tour, held at the University of Maryland Golf Course, from 1994 to 1998. He also organized the UM golf team reunion tournament in 1998 which helped raise $15,000 for the program.

A 1994 graduate of the University of Maryland, Rodenhaver played two seasons for the Terps and led the team to a fifth-place finish at the Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 1994. The fifth-place finish was Maryland's highest in the conference championship since 1978. Rodenhaver was a two-year captain of the men's golf team at Maryland and a participant in the NCAA East Regional in 1994. He played at Southern Methodist for two seasons (1990-91) before transferring to Maryland. He received his bachelor's degree in kinesiology from Maryland in 1994 and is currently pursuing his master's in business administration.

"I am very excited to get started on our first traditional spring season," Rodenhaver said. "During this inaugural season, I hope to build a solid foundation for the years to come. We are fortunate to have a very talented group of golfers to work with to begin the program's history.

"Based on the results from the fall, I believe that the players who have elected to come to Maryland and build the foundation for the program are as committed as I am. If the players continue to improve and mature as I know they will, they will be successful in creating the solid foundation that I know they are capable of building.

"I want each of my players to improve on a continuous basis. I truly believe that we are moving in the right direction and are committed to winning both on and off the course," said Rodenhaver. "I want all of our student-athletes to excel both academically and athletically. I want them to be eager to work hard and be the best they can be every day and in every aspect of their lives."

Rodenhaver is a native of Odessa, Texas. Most of his family, including his wife Robyn, are graduates of the University of Maryland. His father is a member of the National Golf Coach's Hall of Fame and a former assistant golf coach at Maryland.

UNIVERSITY OF Maryland

MARYLAND

LEADING THE WAY INTO THE 21ST CENTURY

- A Carnegie Research-I University
- Member, Association of American Universities
- Flagship of the University System of Maryland
- Division I NCAA Athletics

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Ten years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment.

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

The Campus

The University of Maryland, College Park, is the most comprehensive institution of higher education, research and service in the state. The university offers 100 undergraduate majors, 88 master's programs and 69 doctoral programs in 13 colleges and schools.

The university is one of only 30 public research universities that are members of the prestigious 58-member Association of American Universities. It is classified as a Research-I university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year, sharing that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Among the public universities in the Association of American Universities, Maryland ranks among the top in percentage of African-American undergraduate students. In addition, the university has the largest number of African-Americans and other minority members among its peers.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

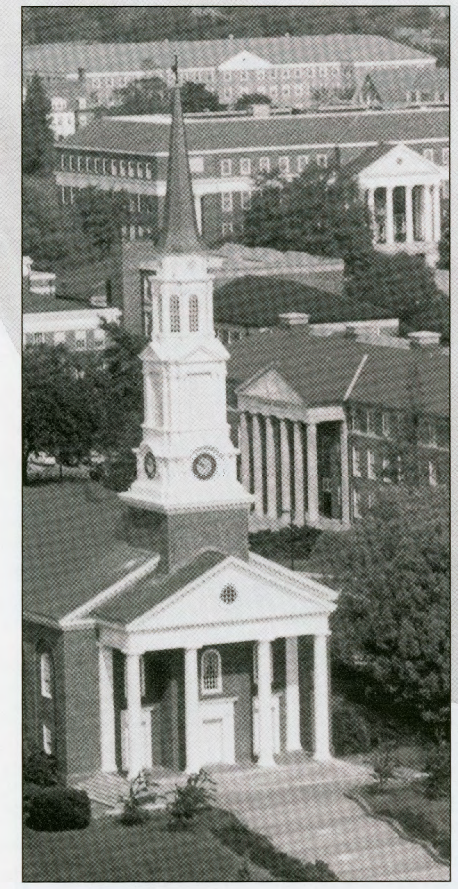
Flagship Status

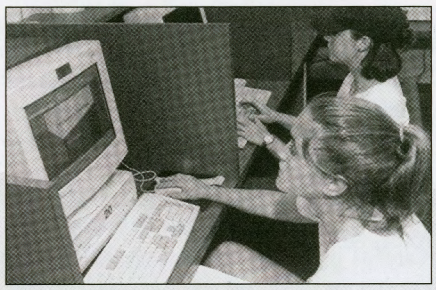
In 1988, the University of Maryland, College Park, was designated as the flagship institution for the University System of Maryland. As well as pursuing a serious research mission and continuing its high level of service to the state, the university rededicated itself to providing the highest quality graduate and undergraduate education. Increased undergraduate opportunities for research and individual study; the development of the College Park Scholars Program and the expansion of the University Honors Program; the genesis of Honors Humanities and Gemstone; the creation of CORE, the general education program; and the establishment of the Center for Teaching Excellence all affirmed the legislature's designation of flagship.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.





Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

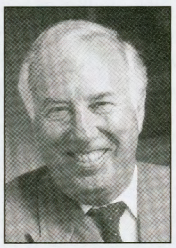
With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

A Wired World

Students at the University of Maryland are part of an academic community that enjoys free access to networked computer resources and facilities that are among the best in the country. Free computer accounts enable users to store class work on a networked server, download classroom support materials and other electronic information from campus networked resources.

C.D. Mote, Jr.
University President



C.D. (Dan) Mote Jr. took office as president in September 1998 with a clear vision for taking the University of Maryland down the home stretch to its destiny as one of America's great research universities.

Mote came to Maryland from the University of California at Berkeley, where he had earned all of his degrees, and where he had served in faculty and administration more than 30 years. He had most recently been vice chancellor for university relations.

In Maryland, he found a university already well on its way to achieving the greatness envisioned when the General Assembly declared it the flagship institution of the University System of Maryland. Mote immediately took a leadership role on the Governor's Task Force on Governance, Coordination and Funding of the University System of Maryland to gain greater autonomy and flexibility for the university to pursue its goals. He followed that by working closely with state leaders to boost university funding for new programs, scholarships and faculty, gaining a 10 percent appropriations increase in his first year.

When the legislature had finished its work for the year, Mote spelled out in his inauguration address his vision of Maryland as a great research university, where teaching and research are "inseparable." In this plan, the faculty creates a culture of excellence that permeates the university, student success is the center of all activity, and the extended Maryland family of alumni and friends grows rich in pride and tradition.

High achievement has been Dan Mote's life, from his student days at the University of California through his years as an outstanding teacher and world-renowned researcher and his leadership of a highly successful capital campaign at Berkeley. He arrived in College Park determined to continue the same level of achievement in his new post.

After earning his doctorate in engineering mechanics from Berkeley in 1963, Mote spent a year as a research fellow at the University of Birmingham in England, then three years as assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh before returning to Berkeley in 1967.

There he stayed for more than 30 years before coming to Maryland. He was promoted to professor in 1973.

Mote and his wife Patsy live in the President's Residence on the College Park campus. They have two grown children and four grandchildren.

Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow

Yow to assume presidency of NACDA in July 2000

Dr. Deborah A. Yow has led Terrapin athletics to balanced budgets, high levels of productivity and achievement and a vigorous commitment to excellence throughout its operations. She is in her sixth year as Maryland's director of athletics.

Since taking over at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

• Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.

• Balanced all five of the more than $25 million annual budgets (the first balanced budgets for the Terrapins in 10 years).

• Improved graduation rates for student-athletes, above that of the general student population, in three of those five years.

• Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 10 percent of all NCAA Division I schools.

• Reorganized and upgraded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 85% and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 270% during her tenure at Maryland.

• Implemented a strategic management model.

• Paid off $7 million in operating debt accrued before her arrival in 1994.

• Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fundraising applications.

• Significantly improved customer service in every area.

Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past five years, Debbie Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied ... our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently ... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools ... to work hard and work smart ... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves." As a manager and leader, she clearly models these principles.

Dr. Yow is a member of the NCAA Management Council and the NCAA Division I Budget Committee. In addition, she will become president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics in July 2000, and was recently singled out by Street & Smith Sports Business Journal as one of the leading athletic administrators in the U.S.

A former basketball coach, she began her coaching career at the high school level in North Carolina before taking over as head women's coach at the University of Kentucky in 1976. She also achieved an outstanding coaching record as head coach at the University of Florida. She later moved into athletic administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as A.D. at Saint Louis University.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics, management, and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Summing up the entire Terrapin athletic program, Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our successes ... and the basis for our bright future."

ACADEMIC SUPPORT & CAREER DEVELOPMENT

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletics program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body.

The mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit, headed by assistant athletic director Demetrius Marlowe, is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that enhance the academic progress, facilitate the career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of every student-athlete.

MAPS Directory

This directory, the Maryland Athletes Placement Source, is produced annually by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin their professional careers.

Distributed to more than 1,000 corporations and businesses around the region, prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with resumé information relative to academic, career and personal achievements.

Career Information Fairs

Career Awareness in Academic Support is expanding to include a variety of programs for student-athletes throughout the semester. Career awareness is an ongoing process and includes assistance with resume writing and interview skills. The end of the semester brings a career awareness fair which hosts a number of professionals with whom student-athletes can learn about career interests and planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen area of interest.

Team Maryland

Team Maryland is a class taught in conjunction with the campus' James McGregor Burns Academy of Leadership in which student-athletes are exposed to leadership and public speaking skills and techniques. The program consists of a group of volunteer student-athletes who learn about the challenges for children in the community by speaking to different elementary schools about drug abuse and the importance of education. In addition to school visits, Team Maryland has hosted visits from local schools to our campus.

Media Guidelines

Credentials: Media and photographer credentials for events at Maryland's University Golf Course may be obtained by working press, radio and television by writing or calling Kevin Messenger (men's) or Chuck Walsh (women's) in the Maryland Athletic Media Relations Office, 1112 Cole Field House, College Park, MD 20741-0295. All requests should be submitted at least 48 hours prior to the event by phoning the Media Relations Office at (301) 314-1483. Since space is limited, accommodations are on a priority basis: daily newspapers and wire services, originating radio and television stations, national weekly or monthly publications, electronic media outlets, local and regional television crews. Priority is granted to members of the media who cover Maryland athletics on a regular basis, and to visiting media members. Photo passes will be issued only to accredited photographers on assignment.

Services: The Media Relations Office will provide complete statistics at the conclusion of every home meet. Programs containing rosters and event notes on each team will be provided for the working media.

Fax Machine: The Media Relations Office has one facsimile machine, located in Room 1112 of Cole Field House, which is available upon request. The fax number is (301) 314-9094.

Faxback: The Atlantic Coast Conference uses its own fax-on-demand system. For faxback information on the University of Maryland or any ACC school, please call the Maryland Athletic Media Relations Office.

Terrapin Fan Phone: For up-to-date reports, comments from coaches, and other Maryland athletic department information, phone the Terrapin Fan Phone at (301) 314-TERP.

Terps on the Web: For up-to-date game stories, statistics, schedules and results, and other Maryland athletic department information, please locate www. umterps.com on the Internet.

Maryland TERRAPINS

Among the Nation's Best

This is Maryland Athletics

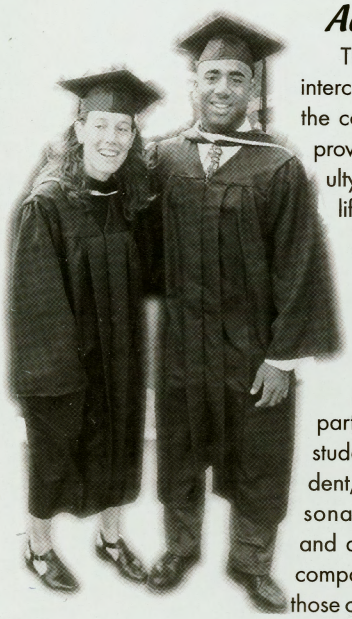
At the University of Maryland, winning is not taken lightly. Like the rich history of all its sports programs, championships are a tradition.

Since the 1950s, Maryland has established itself as one of the most successful athletic programs in the nation. This type of success is no accident; it has been built year-by-year on the achievements of outstanding young men and women who were given the opportunity to excel both on and off the field of play. The victories, the championships and the national acclaim are all ingredients of the Maryland athletic program. Student-athletes who attend Maryland are part of a program and a university which thrives on tradition and excellence.

Athletic Success

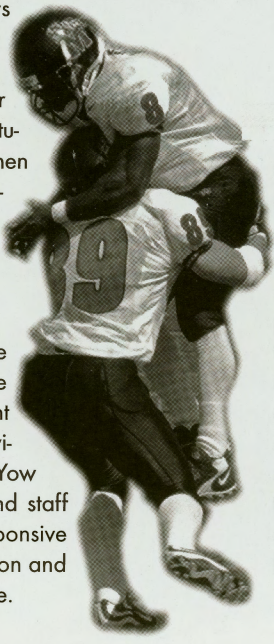
National championships, conference championships, national rankings and postseason play are all a part of the University of Maryland experience. The University of Maryland has established itself as one of the nation's elite athletic programs. The Terrapins have won 13 national championships, including a record four consecutive by the women's lacrosse team. The Terrapins had plenty of reason to celebrate when it came to intercollegiate athletics in 1997-98, as they posted their highest finish ever (No. 19) in the national Sears Directors' Cup all-sports ranking. Its 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 is the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the top 25.

Academic Excellence



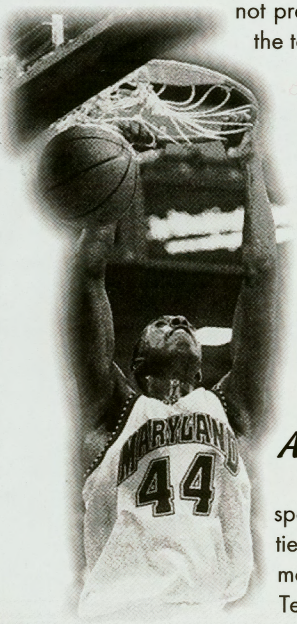
The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletic program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body. Since 1983, 88 percent of freshmen scholarship athletes who completed their eligibility at the University of Maryland earned their degrees.



Goals

The great thing about being a Terrapin is the commitment to hard work and dedication. At the University of Maryland, the athletic department is dedicated to supporting a well-balanced Division I program. Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department into a responsive and financially sound model – with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence.



Competition

Wearing the Maryland uniform means playing in front of some of the loudest and most supportive fans in the nation. It means playing against the best teams in the country, in the most prestigious conference in the country, the ACC. It means wearing the school colors with pride. It means doing your best in athletics and academics. It is a unique and special feeling being a Terrapin.

Athletes in the Community

From the media spotlight to the community spotlight, Terrapin student-athletes strengthen the ties of the local community by serving as role models. Community service is a key part of the Terrapins' agenda. Student-athletes support many community programs which help to enrich the lives of Maryland youth while teaching the importance of studying hard and saying "no" to drugs and alcohol. Representatives from the University of Maryland athletic department speak to participants and use their image and the appeal of sports to encourage Maryland children to stay in school, improve their reading and writing skills, and to receive their high school diplomas.
